Fr. Drummond's Word

My mother's birthday is May 7th. As Mother's Day is celebrated on the second Sunday of May in this country, there were times when my mother's birthday and Mother's Day would be back to back — Saturday and Sunday, but never on the same day. The close proximity of these two days means that this time of year my thoughts inevitably go to my mother — who would have been 93 years old. So this is a tribute to her.

My mother was born in Germany just two years before Hitler's rise to power and because of that her entire childhood was passed under the dark cloud of the Nazis. She was born in a 16th century half-timber house in the beautiful, medieval town of Dreieichenhain. Her father was the pastor of the Lutheran (and only) Church there. At an early age she learned discretion knowing almost instinctively that her parents' criticisms of the Nazi regime could land them all in jail. My grandfather was part of a Protestant movement known as the "Confessing Church" which opposed the Nazi's antisemitism and attempts to paganize Christianity. This also brought my mother and her family to Frankfurt am Main where her father served at Three Kings Church which was part of the Confessing Church movement.

As a ten year old girl, my mother preferred to spend the air raids on the roof of the house with a waterhose to put out sparks from nearby burning buildings than to cower in the makeshift shelter in the basement. The last two years of the war they spent in a village in the Odinvwald. My grandfather although a clergyman was serving in the Luftwaffe where he ironically found refuge from the Gestapo!

After the war she studied education and was among the first in Germany to join the AMI, Association Montessori Internationale. In the early 50's she received a scholarship to study in the United States, going to Michigan where she met my father who was in the Air Force. My father says that the first time he saw her and her smile he knew she was the one for him. She spoke perfect English having lived in London for a year and everybody thought she was British. She had to go back to Germany, however, once her student visa expired. And the next few months were the longest time my parents were ever apart from one another. My older brother was born in this country, I was born in France, and my sister in Germany. My formative years were spent in Germany thanks to the U.S. Airforce.

In 1970 we settled permanently in the U.S. spending the next 6 years in Alexandria. Then in 1976 my mother realized her long held dream of opening a Montessori School, doing so in Blacksburg. My parents ran the Children's House of Blacksburg until the mid-1990's when they sold it to the current owner. In retirement she continued to help out at the school when not taking trips.

In the last ten years of her life my parents made numerous Atlantic crossings with Cunard lines on both the QE2 and the QM2. This was rather fitting as she first came to this country on the original Queen Elizabeth Her final crossing was a year before she died when my parents and I took the QM2 from Southampton to New York with the QE2 in tandem before its retirement.

My mother's struggle with cancer brought about the conversion to the Church of both my parents. It was a great comfort to her that I could give her the Sacraments. There is much for which I have to thank her — the deep faith in Jesus Christ in which she raised us, a love of teaching, and a passion for books and reading, as well as a sense of humour and a taste for Champagne. Thanks Mummy!

Happy Mother's Day.
