Dear Parishioners,

As you may already know about two months ago I was diagnosed with pneumonia in my right lung. A subsequent CT scan showed that there was also a mass on my right lung which was hidden by the pneumonia in the original X-ray. This mass was biopsied yesterday and has proved to be cancerous. This would also explain the blood clots which developed in my legs. In the next few weeks I will be seeing a number of doctors and undergo some further testing as we look to see what treatment will be pursued. I am optimistic and in good spirits, and I do ask for your prayers. As further developments arise I will keep you all informed. May our dear Lord bless and keep you all, in the joy and love of our Lord Jesus Christ,

Father Alexander Grummon
